company to discuss small business climate and impact of taxes,
fees and regulations*

Hagerstown, M.D (January 14, 2014) —David R. Craig, Harford County Executive and Maryland gubernatorial candidate, visited Cumberland Valley Heating & Air Conditioning in Hagerstown, Maryland on Monday, January 13 as part of his Maryland small business tour. The County Executive toured Cumberland Valley's Washington County headquarters and had the opportunity to discuss the various concerns with employees and management about the cost of doing business in Maryland and how a future Maryland administration can facilitate an environment for Maryland's small businesses to thrive.

"We were honored to have County Executive Craig visit with us," said Joseph Barnes, CEO and President of Cumberland Valley Heating & Air Conditioning. "Cumberland Valley recently celebrated twenty-five successful years of being in business in the heart of Western Maryland. Our company certainly appreciates the County Executive fielding the concerns of small business owners and discussing solutions that will create a vibrant climate for all businesses in Maryland to grow and hire new employees."

"Cumberland Valley Heating & Air Conditioning, like thousands of other Maryland small businesses, is directly affected by the burdensome taxes and regulations driving families, jobs, and opportunity out of Maryland," said County Executive Craig. "Moreover, small businesses like Cumberland Valley are deeply concerned about access to quality healthcare without the nightmare of government bureaucracy. In a Craig/Haddaway Administration, we will work to ensure that all Maryland citizens have access to quality, affordable care by enabling consumer choice in the marketplace."
